8. PRESENTATION: RELIGIOUS CAPACITY WHILE IN CUSTODY

Speakers:

Melissa Wagner, Program Services Manager, Sheriff's Office
Anna Zaretski, Corrections Director, Service League of San Mateo County
Lieutenant John Sebring, Sheriff's Office
Tara Huemann, Deputy County Attorney, County Attorney's Office

- Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act (RLUIPA) (2000) protects incarcerated individuals' religious rights, prohibiting substantial burdens on religious exercise unless it serves a compelling government interest and is the least restrictive means.

- California Code of Regulations, Title 15, Section 1072 requires written jail policies for voluntary religious participation.
- Service League of San Mateo County partners with the Sheriff's Office to deliver religious services, supported by a full-time religious coordinator, a corrections manager, and coordination across multiple jail departments.
- The Service League of San Mateo County manages religious volunteer recruitment, working with local faith communities.
- The Sheriff's Office is transitioning to offering services 6 days a week and provide inmates with religious materials through tablets or paper requests.
- Inmate requests for materials, meals, and ceremonies are met through coordinated staff and community efforts.
- All religious service providers undergo background checks and are escorted in the facility. Services are coordinated through a religious coordinator and balanced with jail operations.
- Scheduled religious services are offered regularly across both jail facilities, with varying attendance levels; participation is voluntary and encouraged, and while group services are common, some faiths like Islam and Hinduism often meet one-on-one based on individual requests.

Commissioner Inquiries:

1. Consider not escorting approved religious service providers to reduce the burden on the staff. (Action for Sheriff's Office)
2. Explore ways that the Independent Civilian Advisory Commission can support (Action for Sheriff's Office)
3. Request for the Sheriff's Office to report back on any changes to the number of religions, service days, available with the increased schedule of 6 days versus 2. (Action for Sheriff's Office)
