

REDUCE YOUR RISK OF WAGE THEFT

Wage theft happens when employers don't pay workers all the money they earned. For example:

- Paying less than the local minimum wage
- Not paying for all hours worked
- Not paying overtime
- Bounced checks or unfair deductions.

Wage theft is always illegal. Here are some tips for protecting yourself.

Know your employer

Know your employer's legal name and address. Write down the addresses of all the locations you work at, your employer's license plate number, and the names of the people who hire you, pay you, or supervise you.

Save your paystubs

Keep all of your paystubs and any other documentation of pay you get from your employer.

Keep your own records

Keep track of all the hours you work. Every day, write down the date, when you start and end your shift, where you worked, and any break times. Compare the hours you wrote down with the hours on your paystub. If you notice anything off, contact OLSE for help.

Also, keep track of how much you get paid each week, and when. This is even more important if you get paid in cash and your employer fails to give you paystubs. And keep copies of any written communications with your employer (including text messages!).

Stay informed, together

Know your rights as a worker. If you feel comfortable, talk to your coworkers about workplace rights and concerns. You may have more power and legal protection acting together as a group.

All other incorporated cities and towns		$16.90

SAN MATEO COUNTY MINIMUM WAGE

The County minimum wage applies in all unincorporated areas of San Mateo County. Under the minimum wage law, employers must:

- Pay at least $17.95/hour;
- Give workers written notice of their rights; and
- Never retaliate against a worker for exercising their minimum wage rights.

CONSEQUENCES OF VIOLATION

Employers who break the law may have to pay:

- Back wages to workers
- Administrative penalties to workers
- Administrative fees & penalties to County

OTHER KEY WORKERS' RIGHTS

Here are some other important workplace rights that apply to most workers in San Mateo County—in all cities and the unincorporated area alike:

Overtime

The right to get paid one and a half times your regular rate of pay for any hours worked above 8 hours in one day or 40 hours in one week, and the right to get paid double your regular rate for any hours worked over 12 in one day or your seventh consecutive day of work in a workweek.

Meal and rest breaks

The right to an unpaid 30-minute meal break during each shift of 5 hours or longer, and the right to a paid 10-minute rest break for every four hours of work.

Sick pay

The right to accrue and use up to 40 hours, or five days, of paid sick leave per year.

No unlawful deductions

Your employer may not deduct the cost of uniforms, required safety equipment, or any tools or supplies you use in your work from your pay. You also have the right to be reimbursed for any expenses you incur on your employer's behalf.

Tips

If you earn tips, your employer cannot take any portion of your tips for themselves or for most managers and supervisors. Employers also cannot use tips to meet their wage obligations.

On-time payment

The right to get paid at least twice a month, to get paid on time, and to not have your paycheck bounce.

Correct classification

The right to be treated and paid as an employee unless you truly are an independent contractor. Contact OLSE for help figuring out if you have been misclassified.

No discrimination

The right not to be treated differently based on your race, sex, national origin, disability, sexual orientation, pregnancy, or age.

Health and safety

The right to a workplace free of recognized hazards to worker health and safety, and with a plan to make sure workers can stay safe.

Organizing with coworkers

The right to join together with your coworkers to improve your wages or working conditions, whether or not you are part of a union.

No retaliation

The right not to be punished or have any action taken against you for exercising or attempting to exercise protected rights.

NOTE: These rights apply to most—but not all—San Mateo County workers. This flyer offers basic information and doesn't cover exceptions that may apply. It is not legal advice.
