Expanded postpartum care for Medi-Cal and the Medi-Cal Access Program

Are you pregnant? Have you been pregnant in the last 365 days?

Starting April 1, 2022, you may be able to access a new benefit for pregnancy and postpartum care. You may be eligible for all services during pregnancy and for a full year (365 days) after your pregnancy ends (the "postpartum period").

This coverage is available through Medi-Cal and the Medi-Cal Access Program (MCAP), regardless of your immigration status or how your pregnancy ends.

If you have Medi-Cal or MCAP, or are applying for coverage, let us know if you are pregnant or in the postpartum period, even if you haven't already done so. You may be eligible to receive coverage during pregnancy and for the 365-day postpartum period.

Remember:

Let us know when you are pregnant.
